MKs at work on the mission field . . . no
matter what kind of work it is!

Terry and Cindy McFarland received missionary appointment to Ireland in March 2004, following six years in Ireland as AIMers. They worked diligently, and God helped them to establish a headquarters church in Northern Ireland with a part-time Bible school. Amid some of the worst religious violence in Irish history, they established the only UPCI church in Northern Ireland. In 2008 they began pastoring a work in the Republic of Ireland and will continue working toward establishing more works when they return to the field after furlough.
