The Southern Caucasus

Raymond and Iryna Mason began their ministry together helping to start the very first Russian speaking UPCI church in North America, located in Sacramento, California. They went on their first Associates In Missions trip to Russia and Ukraine in 2012. In that term they assisted local churches with leadership development, evangelism, and music training. The Masons returned to Eastern Europe in 2014 and worked diligently to develop existing assemblies and launch new ones. At present, they oversee the work in the Eastern European Republic of Georgia, working to evangelize, establish, equip and empower strong national leaders. The number of believers continues to multiply into the thousands.
