Biography

Career missionaries to France since October 1993, and now Area Coordinator of Western Europe, Paul and Darla Brochu have been working both in Western France and in the capital, Paris, propagating the Apostolic message of the Book of Acts.

When the Brochus arrived in Châtelleraut in July 2000, their main focus was to plant a church that could serve as a beacon to reach other areas of the West. They have since established a congregation, purchased and renovated a building, and continue to develop the work there.

Paul and Darla Brochu's ministry expanded in the summer of 2013 when they assumed the pastorate of the international church in Paris. As a world-class city of almost eleven million people, Paris is home to many foreign workers. A thriving work has grown out of that community. The Brochus hope to spend their next term more fully concentrating on organizing preaching points and establishing churches in the capital.

Along with these areas of ministry, Brother Brochu is an instructor at the French Bible Institute. He is a member of the French National Board and also serves as Secretary of the Europe-Middle East Region of the United Pentecostal Church International.

The Brochus' Global Missions involvement began in 1990 when they arrived in Luxembourg to serve as furlough replacements for missionaries Arlie and Rebekah Enis. They went on to pastor an American military congregation in Nuremburg, Germany, prior to their 1993 appointment to France. A Maine native of French-Canadian descent, Paul Brochu and his wife are founders of the First Apostolic Church in Wilton, Maine.
