Biography

The Richardsons received missionary appointment in 1980 after serving two years on the Associates In Missions program. They ministered in Madagascar for a total of sixteen years. In 1994 they moved to Mauritius and as the superintendent assumed the leadership of the work there. At the same time they also opened churches in the nations of the Seychelles and La Reunion. They have pastored the headquarters church in three nations and pioneered several churches. They continue to lead the church and the Bible schools in the Seychelles, Mauritius, and La Reunion, while training the nationals to take over these responsibilities. As veteran missionaries for thirty-four years, they have been involved in leadership training, marriage seminars, soul-winning seminars, building leadership, financial management and training, administration and training, and evangelistic efforts and training. Upon return to the field they plan to continue in these endeavors.
