Biography

Ken and Kay Burgess were appointed missionaries in October 1991 after twenty-seven months on the AIM program, and they began their fifth term as career missionaries in Argentina in February 2010. Shortly after their return to the field, Bro. Burgess felt it was time to step down as president of the work in Argentina, where he had served for the past seven years. Subsequently the Burgesses transferred to the tiny, but revival-packed nation of El Salvador in the Central American Region.

As missionary supervisor in El Salvador, Brother Burgess serves as director of the Pentecostal Bible Institute and on the national board of El Salvador. Since moving to El Salvador, they have been involved in all aspects of the national work, including the remodeling of the current national offices building. They were also instrumental in the purchase of a new facility which will house the national offices and the Bible school, which will be remodeled. Plans are also underway to reopen the Cathy Killoren Memorial Clinic and to establish a children's home in El Salvador.

Sister Burgess was recently named director of a national pastors' wives ministry, and she manages the national bookstore. Together they travel throughout the nation teaching, preaching, and speaking at special events and in local churches. The Burgesses have one son, Kameron, who is currently attending Indiana Bible College.
