Biography

Prior to missions service, Braden Reeves was a practicing Certified Public Accountant and worked for the United States Government. Carrie Reeves was a tenured associate university professor of art history and sculpture. After responding to the call to full-time missions, the Reeves served under AIM for one year in both Greece and Cyprus. While still on the field, they were appointed as Associate Missionaries in early 2020, working as furlough replacements to the nation of Cyprus and studying Greek full-time. The Reeves were fully appointed as Intermediate Missionaries to Greece in May 2021 and have spent several years there. Brother Reeves is the Director of Education in Greece and is working to build the Bible school in order to develop Greek leaders to reach their own people. The Reeves have been involved in church planting, leadership training, and evangelism on the field, and are eager to return to continue working in their calling among the Greek people. Cyprus was added to their appointment in 2025.
